Ambition and Social Climbing

Duroy's relentless ambition serves as the driving force of the story. His desire to ascend the social ladder leads him to manipulate those around him, reflecting the cutthroat nature of society. Maupassant illustrates how ambition can corrupt morals and relationships, as Duroy prioritizes personal gain over genuine connections.

Sex and Seduction

Sexual relationships play a pivotal role in Duroy's rise to power. The novel explores how women are often portrayed as tools for men's ambition. Duroy's seductions are not merely acts of passion; they are strategic moves in his quest for success.
