History and Selection Criteria of the Carlton Team of the Century

The carlton team of the century was established to commemorate the club's outstanding players over a 100-year period, celebrating excellence in Australian Rules Football. The selection process involved a panel of experts, including historians, former players, coaches, and media representatives, who assessed candidates based on their skills, leadership, longevity, and overall impact on the club's performance. This team was officially announced in 2000, coinciding with the AFL's broader celebration of century teams for various clubs.

Criteria for Selection

The primary criteria emphasized individual performance, contribution to team success, and embodiment of Carlton's values. Players were evaluated on:

- On-field performance and statistics

- Leadership roles, including captaincy
- Influence on club culture and spirit
- Championships and accolades achieved
- Longevity and consistency at the club

These rigorous standards ensured that only the most exceptional players were included, representing every era of the club's history.
