Understanding the CDL in New Jersey

A commercial driver's license (CDL) is required for individuals who wish to operate commercial motor vehicles (CMVs). In New Jersey, obtaining a CDL involves several steps, including passing written knowledge tests, a skills test, and a medical examination. The CDL is categorized into three classes, each allowing the operation of different types of vehicles:

- Class A: Allows drivers to operate combination vehicles, such as tractor-trailers.
- Class B: Permits the operation of single vehicles with a gross vehicle weight rating (GVWR) of 26,001 pounds or more, including buses and large trucks.
- Class C: Required for drivers who transport hazardous materials or drive vehicles designed to transport 16 or more passengers.

The Importance of CDL NJ Practice Tests

Preparing for the CDL exam can be overwhelming, but practice tests play a crucial role in the preparation process. Here are some reasons why they are important:
