Understanding Common and Proper Nouns

Nouns are fundamental components of language, serving as the building blocks for sentences. They can be classified into two main categories: common nouns and proper nouns.

What are Common Nouns?

Common nouns refer to general names for a person, place, thing, or idea. They are not capitalized unless they start a sentence. Examples include:

- Person: teacher, doctor, student
- Place: city, park, school
- Thing: book, car, computer
- Idea: happiness, freedom, love

Common nouns represent a broad class and can be found in various contexts. For instance, the term "city" refers to any urban area and does not specify which city is being discussed.

What are Proper Nouns?

Proper nouns, on the other hand, are specific names for particular people, places, organizations, or events. They are always capitalized. Examples include:

- Person: Albert Einstein, Marie Curie, Shakespeare
- Place: Paris, New York, Mount Everest
- Organization: United Nations, NASA, Harvard University

Proper nouns provide specificity and clarity, allowing for precise communication about particular entities.
